Choco de luxe

PREMIUM CHOCOLATE

Introduction

- Choco de Luxe is a premium artisanal chocolate brand headquartered in Brussels, Belgium, with operations across several European cities. The company distributes its chocolate bars, bites, and confections through multiple channels; retail outlets, online platforms, and supermarkets. With a growing product line and expanding footprint across Europe, they aim to maintain high-quality standards while increasing market share, and adapting its product and sales strategy based on regional performance and customer preferences.

Problem Statement

- Despite strong product quality and market presence, Choco de Luxe lacks a unified, data-driven view of how its products, salespeople, and delivery strategies are performing across Europe. The leadership team is particularly concerned about underperforming cities, inconsistent delivery statuses, and the need to align pricing, promotion, and product mix with evolving customer behavior. They need actionable insights to optimize sales strategy, delivery efficiency, and regional performance

Organic Product Demand

- Non-organic products are performing significantly better in revenue than the organic products across all channels.
- Website is producing the highest revenue in both organic and non-organic products.
- Purchasing behavior of the customers may be driven by affordability and accessibility rather than quality.

Recommendations

- Replicate sales strategy from revenue peak periods like January and June to reduce fluctuations.
- Investigate the underperforming countries to understand reason for low sales, tailor marketing strategies in those areas and provide trainings to staff to improve customer service and staff productivity.
- Find out from the logistics department the reason for high cancellation in countries like Netherlands and Germany to reduce the high volume of cancelled sales and increase total revenue.
- Increase marketing campaigns and promotions to drive sales online. Introducing online loyalty cards and coupons to encourage repeat purchases from customers.

Recommendations

- Organise staff training and introduce incentive programme to motivate underperforming salespersons to meet profit targets.
- Improve on inventory management for top performing products like Dark chocolate and Milk chocolate to meet up with customer demands all season.
- Advertise the benefit of organic products to customers and offer promotional deals to increase demand for organic products
